Summary of the Board’s Decision

- [1] The Respondent carried out prescribed electrical work in a manner that was contrary to an enactment. He is censured and ordered to pay costs of $225. A record of the disciplinary offending will be recorded on the Public Register for a period of three years.

The Board

- [2] The Board is a statutory body established under the Electricity Act.¹ Its functions include hearing complaints about and disciplining persons to whom Part 11 of the Act.

Introduction

- [3] The hearing resulted from a complaint about the conduct of the Respondent and a report under section 147G(1) of the Act from the Investigator² that the complaint should be considered by the Board. Under section 147T of the Act, the Investigator must prosecute the matter at a Board hearing who may be represented by counsel.
- [4] The Respondent was served with a notice setting out the alleged disciplinary offences the Investigator reported should be considered by the Board. They were:
1. Between December 2021 and January 2022 at [OMITTED], Mr Werner Du Plessis has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a manner contrary to any enactment relating to prescribed electrical work that was in force at the time the work was done being an offence under section 143(a)(ii) of the Act, IN THAT, he installed single strand 1mm² solid core tough plastic sheathed (TPS) to support lighting within a Crusader type Caravan in breach of 60(1)(e) of the Electricity (Safety) Regulations 2010.

Or in the Alternative

2. Between December 2021 and January 2022 at [OMITTED], Mr Werner Du Plessis has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a negligent or incompetent manner being an offence under section 143(a)(i) of the Act, IN THAT, he installed single strand 1mm² solid core TPS to support lighting within a Crusader type Caravan.

- [5] Prior to the hearing, the Respondent and the Board were provided with all of the documents the Investigator had in his/her power or possession.
- [6] No Board Members declared any conflicts of interest in relation to the matters under consideration.

Function of Disciplinary Action

- [7] The common understanding of the purpose of professional discipline is to uphold the integrity of the profession. The focus is not punishment, but the protection of the public, the maintenance of public confidence and the enforcement of high standards of propriety and professional conduct. Those purposes were recently reiterated by the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom in *R v Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales*³ and in New Zealand in *Dentice v Valuers Registration Board*⁴.
- [8] Disciplinary action under the Act is not designed to redress issues or disputes between a complainant and a respondent. In McLanahan and Tan v The New Zealand Registered Architects Board,⁵ Collins J. noted that:

“... the disciplinary process does not exist to appease those who are dissatisfied The disciplinary process ... exists to ensure professional standards are maintained in order to protect clients, the profession and the broader community.”

- [9] The Board can only inquire into “the conduct of an electrical worker” with respect to the grounds for discipline set out in section 143 of the Act. It does not have any jurisdiction over contractual matters.

Procedure

- [10] The matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Evidence

[11] The Board must be satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the disciplinary offences alleged have been committed⁶. The Board notes, as regards evidence in proceedings before it, that the provisions of section 147W of the Act apply. This section states:

In all proceedings under this Part, the Board may, subject to section 156, receive as evidence any statement, document, information, or matter that may in its opinion assist it to deal effectively with the matter before it, whether or not it would be admissible as evidence in a court of law.

[12] The Board heard from the Respondent prior to it making a decision.

[13] As noted, the matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts. The Statement set out that the Respondent was engaged to carry out prescribed electrical work (PEW) associated with the rewiring of a caravan. The allegation was that the Respondent had used an incorrect 1mm² solid core TPS cabling in breach of AS/NZS 3001. A technical review of the PEW was completed. It confirmed the breach of AS/NZS 3001, and the Respondent accepted the breach.

[14] The general rule is that all facts in issue, or relevant to the issue in a case, must be proved by evidence. As the Investigator and Respondent agreed to the facts as outlined above, it was not necessary to call any further evidence or to test the evidence as outlined in the Statement.

Board's Conclusion and Reasoning

[15] The charge was laid in the alternative of negligence or incompetence under section 143(a)(i) and contrary to an enactment under section 143(a)(ii). The Board decided that the appropriate finding was that the Respondent had breached section 143(a)(ii) of the Act in that the Respondent has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a manner contrary to any enactment relating to prescribed electrical work that was in force at the time.

[16] A caravan is a "connectable installation" as it comes within the definition in section 2(1) of the Act, which defines a connectable installation as:

connectable installation, in relation to a vehicle, a relocatable building, or a pleasure vessel, means an electrical installation of that vehicle, relocatable building, or pleasure vessel that is designed or intended for, or capable of, connection to an external power supply that operates at or above such voltage as is prescribed for the purposes of this definition by regulations made under section 169; and includes any electrical appliance that is connected, or intended to be connected, to any such installation

[17] Under section 60(1)(e) of the Safety Regulations, connectable installations must comply with AS/NZS 3001. Clause 3.4.1 of that standard requires that wiring have a cross-sectional area of not less than 1mm² and not less than seven strands to reduce the risk of broken conductors. The conductors installed were single-strand. As such, the Respondent's PEW was not compliant with the mandated standard.

- [18] The Respondent should note that contrary to an enactment is a form of strict liability offence in that all that has to be proven is that the relevant enactment has been breached, in the instance the Electricity (Safety) Regulations 2010. The Board does not need to find that there was intention, fault or negligence⁷.
- [19] Further, the Board decided that the conduct was not serious enough for a finding of negligence or incompetence. In this respect, the New Zealand Courts have stated that an assessment of negligence and/or incompetence in a disciplinary context is a two-stage test⁸. The first is for the Board to consider whether the practitioner has departed from the acceptable standard of conduct of a professional. The second is to consider whether the departure is significant enough to warrant a disciplinary sanction. It is with respect to the second stage that the Board has determined that the Respondent has not committed an offence under section 143(a)(i) of the Act.

Penalty, Costs and Publication

- [20] Having found that one or more of the grounds in section 143 applies the Board must, under section 147M of the Actⁱ, consider the appropriate disciplinary penalty, whether the Respondent should be ordered to pay any costs and whether the decision should be published.
- [21] The Respondent made submissions at the hearing as regards penalty, costs and publication.

Penalty

- [22] The Board has the discretion to impose a range of penalties, which are set out in section 147M of the Act. Exercising that discretion and determining the appropriate penalty requires that the Board balance various factors, including the seriousness of the conduct and any mitigating or aggravating factors present.⁹ It is not a formulaic exercise, but there are established underlying principles that the Board should take into consideration. They include:¹⁰
- (a) protection of the public and consideration of the purposes of the Act;¹¹
 - (b) deterring other Licensed Building Practitioners from similar offending;¹²

⁷ Blewman v Wilkinson [1979] 2 NZLR 208

⁸ Martin v Director of Proceedings [2010] NZAR 333 (HC), F v Medical Practitioners Disciplinary Tribunal [2005] 3 NZLR 774 (CA)

- (c) setting and enforcing a high standard of conduct for the industry;¹³
- (d) penalising wrongdoing,¹⁴ and
- (e) rehabilitation (where appropriate).¹⁵

[23] Overall, the Board should assess the conduct against the range of penalty options available in section 318 of the Act, reserving the maximum penalty for the worst cases¹⁶ and applying the least restrictive penalty available for the particular offending.¹⁷ In all, the Board should be looking to impose a fair, reasonable, and proportionate penalty¹⁸ that is consistent with other penalties imposed by the Board for comparable offending.¹⁹

[24] In general, when determining the appropriate penalty, the Board adopts a starting point based on the principles outlined above prior to it considering any aggravating and/or mitigating factors present.²⁰

[25] The Board noted that the disciplinary offending was at the lower end of the scale and that the Respondent had accepted responsibility for his wrongdoing. On that basis, the Board decided that a censure would suffice and that it would be an appropriate penalty and consistent with other penalties imposed by the Board for similar offending.

Costs

[26] Under section 147N of the Act, the Board may require the Respondent to pay the Board any sum that it considers just and reasonable towards the costs and expenses of, and incidental to the investigation, prosecution and the hearing.

[27] The Respondent should note that the High Court has held that 50% of total reasonable costs should be taken as a starting point in disciplinary proceedings and that the percentage can then be adjusted up or down having regard to the particular circumstances of each case²¹.

[28] In Collie v Nursing Council of New Zealand,²² where the order for costs in the tribunal was 50% of actual costs and expenses, the High Court noted that:

But for an order for costs made against a practitioner, the profession is left to carry the financial burden of the disciplinary proceedings, and as a matter of policy that is not appropriate.

[29] In Kenneth Michael Daniels v Complaints Committee 2 of the Wellington District Law Society,²³ the High Court noted:

[46] All cases referred to in Cooray were medical cases and the Judge was careful to note that the 50 per cent was the general approach that the Medical Council took. We do not accept that if there was any such approach, it is necessarily to be taken in proceedings involving other disciplinary bodies. Much will depend upon the time involved, actual expenses incurred, attitude of the practitioner bearing in mind that whilst the cost of a disciplinary action by a professional body must be something of a burden imposed upon its members, those members should not be expected to bear too large a measure where a practitioner is shown to be guilty of serious misconduct.

[47] Costs orders made in proceedings involving law practitioners are not to be determined by any mathematical approach. In some cases 50 per cent will be too high, in others insufficient.

[30] The Board has adopted an approach to costs that uses a scale based on 50% of the average costs of different categories of hearings, simple, moderate and complex. The current matter was simple. Adjustments based on the High Court decisions above are then made.

[31] Based on the above, the Board's costs order is that the Respondent is to pay the sum of $225 toward the costs of and incidental to the matter. In setting the amount of costs the Board took into account that the Respondent had agreed to the matter proceeding by way of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Publication

[32] As a consequence of its decision, the Respondent's name and the disciplinary outcomes will be recorded in the public register as required by the Act²⁴. The Board can, pursuant to section 147Z of the Act, also order publication over and above the public register notation. Under section 147Z the Board may, if no appeal is brought within 20 working days of its decision, direct the Registrar to cause a notice stating the effect of the decision or order, the reasons for the decision or order, and (unless the Board directs otherwise) the name of the person in respect of whom the decision or order was made, to be published in the Gazette and any other publications as may be directed by the Board.

[33] As a general principle, such further public notification may be required where the Board perceives a need for the public and/or the profession to know of the findings of a disciplinary hearing. This is in addition to the Respondent being named in this decision.

²⁴ Refer sections 128 of the Act

- [34] Within New Zealand, there is a principle of open justice and open reporting which is enshrined in the Bill of Rights Act 1990²⁵. The Criminal Procedure Act 2011 sets out grounds for suppression within the criminal jurisdiction²⁶. Within the disciplinary hearing jurisdiction, the courts have stated that the provisions in the Criminal Procedure Act do not apply but can be instructive²⁷. The High Court provided guidance as to the types of factors to be taken into consideration in *N v Professional Conduct Committee of Medical Council*²⁸.
- [35] The courts have also stated that an adverse finding in a disciplinary case usually requires that the name of the practitioner be published in the public interest²⁹. It is, however, common practice in disciplinary proceedings to protect the names of other persons involved as naming them does not assist the public interest.
- [36] Based on the above, the Board will publish a general article in the Electron summarising the matter but will not order further publication. The Respondent will not be identified in the Electron.
- [37] The Respondent should also note that the Board has not made any form of order under section 153(3) of the Act, which allows for prohibition of publication.

Penalty, Costs and Publication Orders

- [38] For the reasons set out above, the Board directs that:

Penalty: Pursuant to section 147M(1)(g) of the Electricity Act 1992, the Respondent is censured.

Costs: Pursuant to section 147N of the Act, the Respondent is ordered to pay costs of $225 (GST included) towards the costs of, and incidental to, the inquiry of the Board.

Publication: The Registrar shall record the Board's action in the Register of Electrical Workers in accordance with section 128(1)(c)(viii) of the Act.

The Respondent will be named in this decision.

A summary of the matter will be published by way of an article in the Electron which will focus on the lessons to be learnt from the case. The Respondent will not be named in the publication.

- [39] The Respondent should note that the Board may refuse to relicence an electrical worker who has not paid any fine or costs imposed on them.
