Summary of the Board’s Decision

- [1] The Respondent carried out prescribed electrical work as a subcontractor, and he provided the required certification to the main contractor. The owner then requested a copy of the certification from the Respondent. He did not provide it.
- [2] The Safety Regulations stipulate that a copy of the certification must be provided to an owner if they request it within 10 working days. As the Respondent had not complied with the regulatory provision, he had committed the disciplinary offence.
- [3] The offending was at the lower end of the scale, and the matter was dealt with by way of an agreed statement of facts. The Respondent accepted responsibility. The Board adopted a starting point of a fine of $500 but reduced it to $250 in recognition of those factors. A costs order of $225 was made. The matter will be recorded on the Register for three years.

Introduction

- [4] The hearing resulted from a complaint about the conduct of the Respondent and a report under section 147G(1) of the Act from the Investigator that the complaint should be considered by the Board.
- [5] The Respondent was served with a notice setting out the alleged disciplinary offence the Investigator reported should be considered by the Board. It was that:

On or around 20 December 2022 at [OMITTED], Auckland, Mr Seguei (Sergio) Manine has failed to provide a return being an offence under section 143(f) of the Act, IN THAT, he did not supply a Certificate of Compliance and Electrical Safety Certificate upon request by the homeowner within 10 working days.

- [6] Prior to the hearing, the Respondent and the Board were provided with all of the documents the Investigator had in his/her power or possession.
- [7] No Board Members declared any conflicts of interest in relation to the matters under consideration.

Function of Disciplinary Action

- [8] The common understanding of the purpose of professional discipline is to uphold the integrity of the profession. The focus is not punishment, but the protection of the public, the maintenance of public confidence and the enforcement of high standards of propriety and professional conduct. Those purposes were recently reiterated by the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom in *R v Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales*¹ and in New Zealand in *Dentice v Valuers Registration Board*².

Procedure

- [9] The matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Evidence

- [10] The Board must be satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the disciplinary offences alleged have been committed³. The Board notes, as regards evidence in proceedings before it, that the provisions of section 147W of the Act apply. This section states:

In all proceedings under this Part, the Board may, subject to section 156, receive as evidence any statement, document, information, or matter that may in its opinion assist it to deal effectively with the matter before it, whether or not it would be admissible as evidence in a court of law.

- [11] The Board heard from the Respondent prior to it making a decision.
- [12] The general rule is that all facts in issue, or relevant to the issue in a case, must be proved by evidence. As the Investigator and Respondent agreed to the facts as outlined above, it was not necessary to call any further evidence or to test the evidence as outlined in the Statement.

Failure to Provide

- [13] The allegation was that the Respondent had failed to provide a return required under an enactment, in this instance, an Electrical Safety Certificate (ESC) and a Certificate of Compliance (CoC).

¹ R v Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales [2011] UKSC 1, 19 January 2011.

³ Z v Dental Complaints Assessment Committee [2009] 1 NZLR 1

[14] As noted, the matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts. The Statement set out that the Respondent was engaged to carry out prescribed electrical work as a subcontractor. He provided a Certificate of Compliance (CoC) to the person who contracted him as per his regulatory obligations. The owner of the installation then asked for a copy of the CoC. It was not provided, and the main contractor advised him not to engage with the owner. A complaint was made about the non-provision. A CoC was provided after the complaint had been made and after he had been given advice by the Investigator.

[15] Under regulation 74E(4) of the Safety Regulations, a CoC must be provided on demand to specified persons within 10 working days. The homeowner is a person who may demand a CoC. The regulation provides:

74E What happens to certificates of compliance

(4) A responsible person must, on request by any of the following, provide a copy of the certificate to the requester within 10 working days after the request:

(f) the owner or occupier of the place or thing in which the installation or part installation is located.

[16] Under 74G(2) of the Safety Regulations, an ESC must be provided on demand to specified persons within 10 working days. The homeowner is a person who may demand an ESC. The regulation provides.

74G What happens to electrical safety certificates

(2) A person who issues an electrical safety certificate must, on request by any of the following, provide a copy of the certificate to the requester within 10 working days after the request:

(f) the owner or occupier of the place or thing in which the installation or part installation is located.

[17] Given the above, and based on the Respondent's acceptance that he had committed the disciplinary offence, the Board found that the requested certificates had not been provided on request as per the regulatory requirements.

[18] The Respondent accepted that he had failed to provide the CoC to the owner. He was remorseful, and stated that he had learnt from the incident.

Board's Conclusion and Reasoning

[19] The Board has decided that the Respondent has committed a disciplinary offence under section 143(f) of the Act in that he failed to provide a supply a Certificate of Compliance and Electrical Safety Certificate upon request by the homeowner within 10 working days contrary to regulations 74E(4)(f) and 74G(2)(f) of the Safety Regulations.

Penalty, Costs and Publication

- [20] Having found that one or more of the grounds in section 143 of the Act applies, the Board must, under section 147M of the Actⁱ, consider the appropriate disciplinary penalty, whether the Respondent should be ordered to pay any costs and whether the decision should be published.
- [21] The Respondent made submissions at the hearing as regards penalty, costs and publication.

Penalty

- [22] The Board has the discretion to impose a range of penalties, which are set out in section 147M of the Act. Exercising that discretion and determining the appropriate penalty requires that the Board balance various factors, including the seriousness of the conduct and any mitigating or aggravating factors present.⁴ It is not a formulaic exercise, but there are established underlying principles that the Board should take into consideration. They include:⁵
- (a) protection of the public and consideration of the purposes of the Act;⁶
 - (b) deterring other Electrical Workers from similar offending;⁷
 - (c) setting and enforcing a high standard of conduct for the industry;⁸
 - (d) penalising wrongdoing;⁹ and
 - (e) rehabilitation (where appropriate).¹⁰
- [23] Overall, the Board should assess the conduct against the range of penalty options available in section 318 of the Act, reserving the maximum penalty for the worst cases¹¹ and applying the least restrictive penalty available for the particular offending.¹² In all, the Board should be looking to impose a fair, reasonable, and proportionate penalty¹³ that is consistent with other penalties imposed by the Board for comparable offending.¹⁴

¹⁴ Roberts v A Professional Conduct Committee of the Nursing Council of New Zealand [2012] NZHC 3354

- [24] In general, when determining the appropriate penalty, the Board adopts a starting point based on the principles outlined above prior to it considering any aggravating and/or mitigating factors present.¹⁵
- [25] The Board adopted a starting point of a fine of $500, which is consistent with other penalties imposed by the Board for similar offences and reflects that it is a low-level offence.
- [26] The Respondent cooperated and accepted that he had committed the offence. He was remorseful, and he provided the documentation after he had been informed of his obligations. On that basis, the Board reduced the fine to $250.

Costs

- [27] Under section 147N of the Act, the Board may require the Respondent to pay the Board any sum that it considers just and reasonable towards the costs and expenses of, and incidental to the investigation, prosecution and the hearing.
- [28] The Respondent should note that the High Court has held that 50% of total reasonable costs should be taken as a starting point in disciplinary proceedings and that the percentage can then be adjusted up or down having regard to the particular circumstances of each case.¹⁶
- [29] In Collie v Nursing Council of New Zealand,¹⁷ where the order for costs in the tribunal was 50% of actual costs and expenses, the High Court noted that:

But for an order for costs made against a practitioner, the profession is left to carry the financial burden of the disciplinary proceedings, and as a matter of policy that is not appropriate.

- [30] In Kenneth Michael Daniels v Complaints Committee 2 of the Wellington District Law Society,¹⁸ the High Court noted:

[46] All cases referred to in Cooray were medical cases and the Judge was careful to note that the 50 per cent was the general approach that the Medical Council took. We do not accept that if there was any such approach, it is necessarily to be taken in proceedings involving other disciplinary bodies. Much will depend upon the time involved, actual expenses incurred, attitude of the practitioner bearing in mind that whilst the cost of a disciplinary action by a professional body must be something of a burden imposed upon its members, those members should not be expected to bear too large a measure where a practitioner is shown to be guilty of serious misconduct.

¹⁵ In Lochhead v Ministry of Business Innovation and Employment 3 November [2016] NZDC 21288 the District Court recommended that the Board adopt the approach set out in the Sentencing Act 2002.

¹⁶ Cooray v The Preliminary Proceedings Committee HC, Wellington, AP23/94, 14 September 1995, Macdonald v Professional Conduct Committee, HC, Auckland, CIV 2009-404-1516, 10 July 2009, Owen v Wynyard HC, Auckland, CIV-2009-404-005245, 25 February 2010.

¹⁷ [2001] NZAR 74

¹⁸ CIV-2011-485-000227 8 August 2011

[47] Costs orders made in proceedings involving law practitioners are not to be determined by any mathematical approach. In some cases 50 per cent will be too high, in others insufficient.

- [31] The Board has adopted an approach to costs that uses a scale based on 50% of the average costs of different categories of hearings, simple, moderate and complex. The current matter was simple. Adjustments based on the High Court decisions above are then made.
- [32] Based on the above, the Board's costs order is that the Respondent is to pay the sum of $225 toward the costs of and incidental to the matter. In setting the amount, the Board took into account that the Respondent had agreed to the matter proceeding by way of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Publication

- [33] As a consequence of its decision, the Respondent's name and the disciplinary outcomes will be recorded in the public Register as required by the Act¹⁹. The Board can, pursuant to section 147Z of the Act, also order publication over and above the public register notation. Under section 147Z of the Act, the Board may, if no appeal is brought within 20 working days of its decision, direct the Registrar to cause a notice stating the effect of the decision or order, the reasons for the decision or order, and (unless the Board directs otherwise) the name of the person in respect of whom the decision or order was made, to be published in the Gazette and any other publications as may be directed by the Board.
- [34] As a general principle, such further public notification may be required where the Board perceives a need for the public and/or the profession to know of the findings of a disciplinary hearing. This is in addition to the Respondent being named in this decision.
- [35] Within New Zealand, there is a principle of open justice and open reporting which is enshrined in the Bill of Rights Act 1990²⁰. The Criminal Procedure Act 2011 sets out grounds for suppression within the criminal jurisdiction²¹. Within the disciplinary hearing jurisdiction, the courts have stated that the provisions in the Criminal Procedure Act do not apply but can be instructive²². The High Court provided guidance as to the types of factors to be taken into consideration in *N v Professional Conduct Committee of Medical Council*²³.
- [36] The courts have also stated that an adverse finding in a disciplinary case usually requires that the name of the practitioner be published in the public interest²⁴. It is,

¹⁹ Refer sections 128 of the Act

²⁰ Section 14 of the Act

²¹ Refer sections 200 and 202 of the Criminal Procedure Act

however, common practice in disciplinary proceedings to protect the names of other persons involved as naming them does not assist the public interest.

- [37] Based on the above, the Board will publish a general article in the Electron summarising the matter but will not order further publication. The Respondent will not be identified in the Electron.
- [38] The Respondent should also note that the Board has not made any form of order under section 153(3) of the Act, which allows for prohibition of publication.

Penalty, Costs and Publication Orders

- [39] For the reasons set out above, the Board directs that:

Penalty: Pursuant to section 147M(1)(f) of the Electricity Act 1992, the Respondent is ordered to pay a fine of $250.

Costs: Pursuant to section 147N of the Act, the Respondent is ordered to pay costs of $225 (GST included) towards the costs of, and incidental to, the inquiry of the Board.

Publication: The Registrar shall record the Board's action in the Register of Electrical Workers in accordance with section 128(1)(c)(viii) of the Act.

The Respondent will be named in this decision, which will be publicly available on the Board's website.

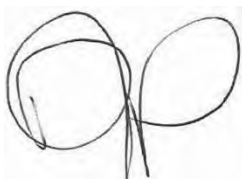

A summary of the matter will be published by way of an article in the Electron, which will focus on the lessons to be learnt from the case. The Respondent will not be named in the publication.

- [40] The Respondent should note that the Board may refuse to relicence an electrical worker who has not paid any fine or costs imposed on them.

Right of Appeal

- [41] The right to appeal Board decisions is provided for in sections 147ZA and 147ZB of the Actⁱⁱ.
