Summary of the Board’s Decision

- [1] The Respondent carried out prescribed electrical work in a negligent manner. He is fined $250 and ordered to pay costs of $225. A record of the disciplinary offending will be recorded on the Public Register for a period of three years.

The Board

- [2] The Board is a statutory body established under the Electricity Act.<sup>1</sup> Its functions include hearing complaints about and disciplining persons to whom Part 11 of the Act.

Introduction

- [3] The hearing resulted from a complaint about the conduct of the Respondent and a report under section 147G(1) of the Act from the Investigator<sup>2</sup> that the complaint should be considered by the Board. Under section 147T of the Act, the Investigator must prosecute the matter at a Board hearing who may be represented by counsel.
- [4] The Respondent was served with a notice setting out the alleged disciplinary offences the Investigator reported should be considered by the Board. It was:
1. Around August 2021 at [OMITTED] Mr Yong Shao has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a manner contrary to any enactment relating to prescribed electrical work that was in force at the time the work was done being an offence under section 143(a)(ii) of the Act, IN THAT, when carrying out work on a low or extra low voltage appliance he:

- b. Failed to confirm that the alarm control panel was operationally safe and free from defects which may cause harm to a person or property; and/or
- c. Failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair and overall safety of the of the alarm control panel.

In breach of regulations 90(1)(b) and 90(2)(a)(iii) of the Electricity (Safety) Regulations 2010.

Or in the Alternative

- 2. Around August 2021 at [OMITTED] Mr Yong Shao has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a negligent or incompetent manner being an offence under section 143(a)(i) of the Act, IN THAT, when carrying out work on a low or extra low voltage appliance he:

- a. Failed to confirm that the alarm control panel was operationally safe and free from defects which may cause harm to a person or property; and/or
- b. Failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair and overall safety of the of the alarm control panel.

Or in the Alternative

- 3. On or around August 2021 at [OMITTED] Mr Yong Shao has negligently created a risk of serious harm to any person, or a risk of significant property damage, through having carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work being an offence under section 143(b)(ii) of the Act, IN THAT, when carrying out work on a low or extra low voltage appliance he:

- a. Failed to confirm that the alarm control panel was operationally safe and free from defects which may cause harm to a person or property; and/or
- b. Failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair and overall safety of the of the alarm control panel.

In breach of regulations 90(1)(b) and 90(2)(a)(iii) of the Electricity (Safety) Regulations 2010.

[5] Prior to the hearing, the Respondent and the Board were provided with all of the documents the Investigator had in his/her power or possession.

[6] No Board Members declared any conflicts of interest in relation to the matters under consideration.

Function of Disciplinary Action

- [7] The common understanding of the purpose of professional discipline is to uphold the integrity of the profession. The focus is not punishment, but the protection of the public, the maintenance of public confidence and the enforcement of high standards of propriety and professional conduct. Those purposes were recently reiterated by the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom in R v Institute of Chartered Accountants in England and Wales<sup>3</sup> and in New Zealand in Dentice v Valuers Registration Board<sup>4</sup>.
- [8] Disciplinary action under the Act is not designed to redress issues or disputes between a complainant and a respondent. In McLanahan and Tan v The New Zealand Registered Architects Board,<sup>5</sup> Collins J. noted that:
- “... the disciplinary process does not exist to appease those who are dissatisfied ... . The disciplinary process ... exists to ensure professional standards are maintained in order to protect clients, the profession and the broader community.”*
- [9] The Board can only inquire into “the conduct of an electrical worker” with respect to the grounds for discipline set out in section 143 of the Act. It does not have any jurisdiction over contractual matters.

Procedure

- [10] The matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Evidence

- [11] The Board must be satisfied on the balance of probabilities that the disciplinary offences alleged have been committed<sup>6</sup>. The Board notes, as regards evidence in proceedings before it, that the provisions of section 147W of the Act apply. This section states:

In all proceedings under this Part, the Board may, subject to section 156, receive as evidence any statement, document, information, or matter that may in its opinion assist it to deal effectively with the matter before it, whether or not it would be admissible as evidence in a court of law.

- [12] The Board heard from the Respondent prior to it making a decision.
- [13] As noted, the matter proceeded on the basis of an Agreed Statement of Facts. The Statement set out that the Respondent was engaged to carry out prescribed electrical work (PEW) associated with fault finding regarding a security system. The Respondent diagnosed a fault with the main PCB (alarm control panel) for the system and installed a replacement panel. Following completion, a complaint was made alleging the Respondent had carried out the work non-compliantly, leading to the alarm control panel catching fire.

- [14] The Investigator engaged Mr David Olsen, an Electrical Inspector, to provide a technical review expert opinion of the PEW undertaken by Mr Olsen. He identified the issues which formed the basis of the disciplinary offence being pursued. They were that the Respondent had:
- (a) failed to properly service the alarm panel, which led to a short circuit from one of the cables connected to a peripheral device not being identified;
  - (b) by passed the tamper circuit to the security panel, which falsely removed the error code showing on the alarm panel. This led to the conductors heating up and eventually catching fire;
  - (c) failed to comply with AS/NZS 5762:2011 in that he did not confirm the appliance was free from defects. Furthermore, by bypassing the tamper circuit, the Respondent failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair in breach of AS/NZS 5762:2011 1.4.1 and 1.4.2; and
  - (d) failed to adequately terminate connections at the switchboard.
- [15] The Respondent provided a written response to the complaint. He set out that he believed the fire was not caused by the alarm panel and thought that the switchboard would have protected against any fault. He noted that he had carried out several alarm panel replacements without fault.
- [16] Notwithstanding, the Respondent accepted that he failed to confirm that the alarm control panel was operationally safe and free from defects which may cause harm to a person or property and that he failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair and overall safety of the alarm control panel. The Respondent was remorseful, and the Investigator accepted that he had cooperated with the investigation.
- [17] The general rule is that all facts in issue, or relevant to the issue in a case, must be proved by evidence. As the Investigator and Respondent agreed to the facts as outlined above, it was not necessary to call any further evidence or to test the evidence as outlined in the Statement.

Board's Conclusion and Reasoning

- [18] The Board has decided that the Respondent has carried out or caused to be carried out prescribed electrical work in a negligent or incompetent manner being an offence under section 143(a)(i) of the Act in that when carrying out work on a low or extra low voltage appliance he failed to confirm that the alarm control panel was operationally safe and free from defects which may cause harm to a person or property and failed to confirm the efficacy of the repair and overall safety of the alarm control panel.
- [19] The charges put before the Board were laid in the alternatives of negligently creating a risk of serious harm to any person, or a risk of significant property damage under section 143(b)(ii) and, as alternatives, negligence or incompetence under section 143(a)(i) and contrary to an enactment under section 143(a)(ii). The Board decided that the appropriate finding was one of negligently carrying out prescribed electrical work.

- [20] The Board made the finding on the basis that the necessary elements for a finding under section 143(b)(ii) of the Act had not been made out as a causative connection between the PEW and the fire had not been established but that the conduct was more serious than carrying out PEW in a manner that was contrary to an enactment.
- [21] Negligence is considered to be the departure by an electrical worker, whilst carrying out or supervising prescribed electrical work, from an accepted standard of conduct. It is judged against those of the same class of licence as the person whose conduct is being inquired into. This is described as the Bolam<sup>7</sup> test of negligence which has been adopted by the New Zealand Courts<sup>8</sup>.
- [22] Incompetence is a lack of ability, skill or knowledge to carry out or supervise prescribed electrical work to an acceptable standard. Beattie put it as “a demonstrated lack of the reasonably expected ability or skill level”. In Ali v Kumar and Others,<sup>9</sup> it was stated as “an inability to do the job”.
- [23] The New Zealand Courts have stated that an assessment of negligence and/or incompetence in a disciplinary context is a two-stage test<sup>10</sup>. The first is for the Board to consider whether the practitioner has departed from the acceptable standard of conduct of a professional. The second is to consider whether the departure is significant enough to warrant a disciplinary sanction.
- [24] When considering what an acceptable standard is, the Board must have reference to the conduct of other competent and responsible practitioners and the Board’s own assessment of what is appropriate conduct, bearing in mind the purpose of the Act,<sup>11</sup> which includes protecting the health and safety of members of the public in connection with the supply and use of electricity, and promoting the prevention of damage to property in connection with the supply and use of electricity. The test is an objective one and, in this respect, it has been noted that the purpose of discipline is the protection of the public by the maintenance of professional standards and that this could not be met if, in every case, the Board was required to take into account subjective considerations relating to the practitioner<sup>12</sup>.
- [25] The Board also notes, as regards acceptable standards, that all prescribed electrical work must comply with the Electricity (Safety) Regulation 2010 and the cited Standards and Codes of Practice in Schedule 2 of the Regulations. As such, when considering what is and is not an acceptable standard, they must be taken into account.

- [26] Turning to seriousness in Collie v Nursing Council of New Zealand,<sup>13</sup> the Court's noted, as regards the threshold for disciplinary matters, that:

[21] Negligence or malpractice may or may not be sufficient to constitute professional misconduct and the guide must be standards applicable by competent, ethical and responsible practitioners and there must be behaviour which falls seriously short of that which is to be considered acceptable and not mere inadvertent error, oversight or for that matter carelessness.

- [27] The evidence before the Board, as accepted by the Respondent, was that the PEW had been completed in a manner that was contrary to the prescribed standards. Additionally, the Board, which includes members with extensive industry experience and knowledge, decided that the Respondent's conduct had fallen below that expected of a licensed electrical worker and that the conduct was serious enough to warrant a disciplinary finding of negligence.

Penalty, Costs and Publication

- [28] Having found that one or more of the grounds in section 143 applies the Board must, under section 147M of the Act<sup>i</sup>, consider the appropriate disciplinary penalty, whether the Respondent should be ordered to pay any costs and whether the decision should be published.
- [29] The Respondent made submissions at the hearing as regards penalty, costs and publication.

Penalty

- [30] The Board has the discretion to impose a range of penalties, which are set out in section 147M of the Act. Exercising that discretion and determining the appropriate penalty requires that the Board balance various factors, including the seriousness of the conduct and any mitigating or aggravating factors present.<sup>14</sup> It is not a formulaic exercise, but there are established underlying principles that the Board should take into consideration. They include:<sup>15</sup>
- (a) protection of the public and consideration of the purposes of the Act;<sup>16</sup>
  - (b) deterring other Licensed Building Practitioners from similar offending;<sup>17</sup>
  - (c) setting and enforcing a high standard of conduct for the industry;<sup>18</sup>

- (d) penalising wrongdoing;<sup>19</sup> and
- (e) rehabilitation (where appropriate).<sup>20</sup>

- [31] Overall, the Board should assess the conduct against the range of penalty options available in section 318 of the Act, reserving the maximum penalty for the worst cases<sup>21</sup> and applying the least restrictive penalty available for the particular offending.<sup>22</sup> In all, the Board should be looking to impose a fair, reasonable, and proportionate penalty<sup>23</sup> that is consistent with other penalties imposed by the Board for comparable offending.<sup>24</sup>
- [32] In general, when determining the appropriate penalty, the Board adopts a starting point based on the principles outlined above prior to it considering any aggravating and/or mitigating factors present.<sup>25</sup>
- [33] The Board found that the Respondent had, fundamentally, failed to comply with the manufacturer's instructions for the system being installed. The Board considered that the conduct was at the lower end of the negligence scale. It adopted a modest fine as a starting point. The Board then took into account the Respondent's cooperation and his early acceptance of responsibility as mitigating factors. The Board settled on a fine of $250.

Costs

- [34] Under section 147N of the Act, the Board may require the Respondent to pay the Board any sum that it considers just and reasonable towards the costs and expenses of, and incidental to the investigation, prosecution and the hearing.
- [35] The Respondent should note that the High Court has held that 50% of total reasonable costs should be taken as a starting point in disciplinary proceedings and that the percentage can then be adjusted up or down having regard to the particular circumstances of each case<sup>26</sup>.
- [36] In Collie v Nursing Council of New Zealand,<sup>27</sup> where the order for costs in the tribunal was 50% of actual costs and expenses, the High Court noted that:

But for an order for costs made against a practitioner, the profession is left to carry the financial burden of the disciplinary proceedings, and as a matter of policy that is not appropriate.

[37] In Kenneth Michael Daniels v Complaints Committee 2 of the Wellington District Law Society,<sup>28</sup> the High Court noted:

[46] All cases referred to in Cooray were medical cases and the Judge was careful to note that the 50 per cent was the general approach that the Medical Council took. We do not accept that if there was any such approach, it is necessarily to be taken in proceedings involving other disciplinary bodies. Much will depend upon the time involved, actual expenses incurred, attitude of the practitioner bearing in mind that whilst the cost of a disciplinary action by a professional body must be something of a burden imposed upon its members, those members should not be expected to bear too large a measure where a practitioner is shown to be guilty of serious misconduct.

[47] Costs orders made in proceedings involving law practitioners are not to be determined by any mathematical approach. In some cases 50 per cent will be too high, in others insufficient.

[38] The Board has adopted an approach to costs that uses a scale based on 50% of the average costs of different categories of hearings, simple, moderate and complex. The current matter was simple. Adjustments based on the High Court decisions above are then made.

[39] Based on the above, the Board's costs order is that the Respondent is to pay the sum of $225 toward the costs of and incidental to the matter. In setting the amount of costs the Board took into account that the Respondent had agreed to the matter proceeding by way of an Agreed Statement of Facts.

Publication

[40] As a consequence of its decision, the Respondent's name and the disciplinary outcomes will be recorded in the public register as required by the Act<sup>29</sup>. The Board can, pursuant to section 147Z of the Act, also order publication over and above the public register notation. Under section 147Z the Board may, if no appeal is brought within 20 working days of its decision, direct the Registrar to cause a notice stating the effect of the decision or order, the reasons for the decision or order, and (unless the Board directs otherwise) the name of the person in respect of whom the decision or order was made, to be published in the Gazette and any other publications as may be directed by the Board.

[41] As a general principle, such further public notification may be required where the Board perceives a need for the public and/or the profession to know of the findings of a disciplinary hearing. This is in addition to the Respondent being named in this decision.

[42] Within New Zealand, there is a principle of open justice and open reporting which is enshrined in the Bill of Rights Act 1990<sup>30</sup>. The Criminal Procedure Act 2011 sets out grounds for suppression within the criminal jurisdiction<sup>31</sup>. Within the disciplinary hearing jurisdiction, the courts have stated that the provisions in the Criminal Procedure Act do not apply but can be instructive<sup>32</sup>. The High Court provided guidance as to the types of factors to be taken into consideration in N v Professional Conduct Committee of Medical Council<sup>33</sup>.

- [43] The courts have also stated that an adverse finding in a disciplinary case usually requires that the name of the practitioner be published in the public interest<sup>34</sup>. It is, however, common practice in disciplinary proceedings to protect the names of other persons involved as naming them does not assist the public interest.
- [44] Based on the above, the Board will not order further publication.
- [45] The Respondent should also note that the Board has not made any form of order under section 153(3) of the Act, which allows for prohibition of publication.

Penalty, Costs and Publication Orders

- [46] For the reasons set out above, the Board directs that:

Penalty: Pursuant to section 147M(1)(f) of the Electricity Act 1992, the Respondent is ordered to pay a fine of $250.

Costs: Pursuant to section 147N of the Act, the Respondent is ordered to pay costs of $225 (GST included) towards the costs of, and incidental to, the inquiry of the Board.

Publication: The Registrar shall record the Board's action in the Register of Electrical Workers in accordance with section 128(1)(c)(viii) of the Act.

The Respondent will be named in this decision.

In terms of section 147Z of the Act, there will not be action taken to publicly notify the Board's action.

- [47] The Respondent should note that the Board may refuse to relicence an electrical worker who has not paid any fine or costs imposed on them.

Right of Appeal

- [48] The right to appeal Board decisions is provided for in sections 147ZA and 147ZB of the Act<sup>ii</sup>.

- (1) If the Board, after conducting a hearing, is satisfied that a person to whom this Part applies is guilty of a disciplinary offence, the Board may—
- (a) do 1 or more of the following things:
    - (i) order that the person's registration or practising licence (or both) be cancelled:
    - (ii) order that the person's provisional licence be cancelled:
    - (iii) order that the person may not apply to be reregistered or re-licensed before the expiry of a specified period:
  - (b) order that the person's registration or practising licence (or both), or the person's provisional licence, be suspended—
    - (i) for any period that the Board thinks fit; or
    - (ii) until that person does 1 or more of the things specified in subsection (2):
  - (c) order that the person's registration or practising licence (or both), or the person's provisional licence, be restricted for any period that the Board thinks fit, in either or both of the following ways:
    - (i) by limiting the person to the work that the Board may specify:
    - (ii) by limiting the person to doing, or assisting in doing, work in certain circumstances (for example, by limiting the person to work only on approved premises or only in the employ of an approved employer):
  - (d) order that the person be disqualified from doing or assisting in doing prescribed electrical work that the person would otherwise be authorised to do in that person's capacity as a person to whom this Part applies—
    - (i) permanently, or for any period that the Board thinks fit; or
    - (ii) until that person does 1 or more of the things specified in subsection (2):
  - (e) order the person to do 1 or more of the things specified in subsection (2) within the period specified in the order:
  - (f) order the person to pay a fine not exceeding $10,000:
  - (g) order that the person be censured:
  - (h) make no order under this subsection.
- (2) The things that the person can be required to do for the purposes of subsection (1)(b), (d), and (e) are to—
- (a) pass any specified examination:
  - (b) complete any competence programme or specified period of training:
  - (c) attend any specified course of instruction.
- (3) The Board may take only 1 type of action in subsection (1) in relation to a case, except that it may impose a fine under subsection (1)(f) in addition to taking the action under subsection (1)(b), (c), (e) or (g).

- (4) No fine may be imposed under subsection (1)(f) in relation to an act or omission that constitutes an—
- (a) offence for which the person has been convicted by a court; or
  - (b) infringement offence for which the person has been issued with an infringement notice and has paid an infringement fee.
- (5) The Board must not exercise any authority conferred by this section in respect of any offence committed by any person before the date of that person's registration or, as the case may be, the date on which that person's provisional licence was issued if at that date the Board was aware of that person's conviction for that offence.
- (6) If a person is registered under Part 10 in respect of more than 1 class of registration, the Board may exercise its powers under subsection (1)(a) to (e) in respect of each of those classes or 1 or more of those classes as the Board thinks fit.]

ii Section 147ZA Appeals

- (1) A person who is dissatisfied with the whole or any part of any of the following decisions, directions, or orders may appeal to the District Court against the decision, direction, or order:
- (e) any decision, direction, or order under any of sections 108, 109, 120, 133, 137, and 153 or Part 11 (except section 147C).

Section 147ZB Time for lodging appeal

An appeal under section 147ZA must be brought within—

- (a) 20 working days after notice of the decision, direction, or order was given to, or served on, the appellant; or
- (b) any further time that the District Court may allow on application made before or after the expiration of that period.
